

ANARCHIST FREE, RAVED IN COURT.

Young Hertz Aroused Magistrate Crane's Ire by His Tirade Against the Clergy and the Wealthy.

NO EVIDENCE TO HOLD HIM.

Refused to Leave the City, Though He Has Boasted He Is to Go Abroad to International Conference of "Reds."

After arguing the cause of Anarchy as if he were a university professor instead of a seventeen-year-old boy, Francis Hertz, the bartender arrested a few days ago for making incendiary speeches, was discharged in Centre Street Police Court by Magistrate Crane to-day.

Before letting the young Anarchist go, Assistant District Attorney Studin tried to make him promise that he would leave the city. "I shall do nothing of the kind," the young man said, "and you cannot drive me out."

"I understand, young man," Magistrate Crane said, as he called the boy Anarchist up on the bridge before him. "That you make incendiary speeches. The detectives, however, have been unable to gather sufficient evidence against you."

"No one can prevent me from talking my beliefs," the boy said. "This is a free country and freedom of speech is one of the fundamental principles of our Constitution. This Government, however, is rotten to the core, because it is controlled by the clergy. I believe that the rich should be cast down, monopolies destroyed, and the money that the rich have been living on, while they keep the workmen, the producers, under their heel, divided among the poor of the land. That would be an ideal state of affairs, and I propose to use all my talents to that end."

Magistrate Crane was angry. "Stop such talk, young man," he cried. "You may be a bright boy, but I tell you that unless your talents are directed into other channels you will find yourself up against it and be an outcast."

"I have no fear of that," Francis said. "Take your theories out of this country," the Magistrate exclaimed. "We don't want your foreigners coming here to kill our Presidents. Go back to Switzerland or, on a desert island and study religion."

"Religion," the prisoner exclaimed with scorn. "Religion is nothing but a cloak used by criminals to hide their black art."

"Get out of my sight," the Magistrate cried. "Take him away before I lose my temper."

The young Anarchist left the courtroom, still mumbling his tirade against religion and the rich.

When the defendant found his trunk it was full of incendiary literature, including a picture and the name of Bresel, who assassinated Italy's King.

Friends of Joseph Feldman, of No. 47 Attorney street, flocked to the Essex Market Police Court to-day to testify to his good character. He was arrested yesterday by Detectives Brown and Sweeney, of the Eldridge street station, on complaint of Mrs. Rosa Millstein, of No. 102 Orchard street.

Mrs. Millstein went to the Provident Loan office, at Rivington and Eldridge streets, to redeem a watch. She alleged that she dropped a $5 bill on the floor and that Feldman, who stood behind her, picked it up. Feldman said that he also went to the place to redeem a watch, and when searched he only had money enough to redeem his property.

"Maybe you lost the money in my home," said the Court to the complainant.

She insisted that she did not, and was positive that the defendant had picked it up. Max Stone, a member of the synagogue to which Feldman belonged, came to court with the entire congregation to testify for the prisoner.

"Let the defendant's friends and neighbors speak," said Magistrate Flamm. "Alas," said Magistrate Flamm, "every spectator in court arose."

"My," exclaimed Magistrate Flamm, "there's over one hundred more. Madam, a man with so many friends cannot be a bad man. I believe you have made a mistake. I will give the prisoner the benefit of the doubt and discharge him."

ARRESTED AS HE LEFT COURT

H. D. Graft, Freed on Forgery Charge, Will Be Tried for Larceny.

When H. D. Graft, twenty-four years old, of West One Hundred and Second street, was arraigned before Magistrate Pool in the West Side Police Court to-day for passing a worthless check for $150 on Mrs. Kate Guggis, his wife was in court and paid the money to Mrs. Guggis, who then withdrew her complaint.

Magistrate Pool discharged the prisoner, but as he was leaving the courtroom he was arrested by Detective McCarthy, who was on duty at the time. He was taken to the West Side Police Court, where he was arraigned on a charge of larceny of the money which he had just paid to Mrs. Guggis.

SPORT AT THE MIAMI CLUB.

The checker and progressive euchre tournament held last night by the Miami Club, of the Thirty-second Assembly District, at its clubhouse, No. 180 Lexington avenue, had a large attendance of members. President John Kelly was enthusiastic over the interest shown in the event. The checker contest was won by Benjamin Moses. Peter Burns acted as referee.

Mon the progressive euchre, and John Kelly was the referee. Mr. Kelly expects a large attendance at the pool tournament, which begins Monday evening and runs for five nights. Many of the members are practicing daily for it.

ALIVE, SHE WAS TO BE BURIED.

Young Woman Thought to Be Dead Rescued from Being Buried Alive by Funeral Director.

WAS ABOUT TO EMBALM HER.

He Noticed that the Position of an Arm of Supposed Subject Was Moved, and Called in a Doctor, Who Revived Her.

Deep grief has given way to rejoicing in the Red Bank (N. J.) home of Miss Edith Curzon, a beautiful young woman who, apparently dead and in the hands of an undertaker, returned to life and is now fairly on the way to recovery.

Medical records contain no case more peculiar than this one of the girl who has been rescued from an awful burial alive after the physician had pronounced her dead and her family had left the room broken down with sorrow.

Her supposed death came with a suddenness that found her friends entirely unprepared, for on Monday night she was among them, and as the Goddess of Liberty at a Washington's Birthday party had taken the first prize of a gold watch. The entire company had raved over the striking beauty of her face and costume. She appeared in the hall on a handsome foot.

"Died" and Came to Life.

It will be remembered that the air was chill on Monday. Miss Curzon's gown was thin, and she contracted a heavy cold which confined her to her bed on Tuesday. The following day the physician announced that her case was a light attack of pneumonia, but she suffered so little that several friends were allowed to come into her bedroom.

They laughingly congratulated her on her success at the party. On Thursday, her condition gave no cause for alarm and she conversed with the members of her family who came into the room. It was thought that all danger had passed.

It was yesterday morning that the turn for the worst came, and looked for the last time, as they thought upon her face in life. The doctor held her pulse for a few minutes and after a trying silence, broken only by sobs, said that the last spark of life had gone.

The relatives left the room, the physician went away and the undertaker came. He entered the room to embalm the body and prepare it for burial. He took the usual precautions to see if life had entirely fled and saw no sign that the girl was alive.

Saved by the Undertaker. Turning a moment from the bedside to prepare the board, the undertaker on returning saw that the right arm, which had rested limply at the girl's side, had been raised to her face. Used as he was to gruesome scenes he shuddered at the sight, but bent over her and gazed anxiously at her face.

At last a slight quivering of the eyelids was noticeable and with a startled cry he called the young woman's father. The physician, called again and the work to save her life renewed. In half an hour she sighed, opened her eyes and smiled and then closed them again in peaceful sleep.

The crisis, the doctor said, had passed.

When Feldman was Accused Acquaintances Filled Court-Room to Testify in His Favor.

Friends of Joseph Feldman, of No. 47 Attorney street, flocked to the Essex Market Police Court to-day to testify to his good character. He was arrested yesterday by Detectives Brown and Sweeney, of the Eldridge street station, on complaint of Mrs. Rosa Millstein, of No. 102 Orchard street.

Mrs. Millstein went to the Provident Loan office, at Rivington and Eldridge streets, to redeem a watch. She alleged that she dropped a $5 bill on the floor and that Feldman, who stood behind her, picked it up. Feldman said that he also went to the place to redeem a watch, and when searched he only had money enough to redeem his property.

"Maybe you lost the money in my home," said the Court to the complainant.

She insisted that she did not, and was positive that the defendant had picked it up. Max Stone, a member of the synagogue to which Feldman belonged, came to court with the entire congregation to testify for the prisoner.

"Let the defendant's friends and neighbors speak," said Magistrate Flamm. "Alas," said Magistrate Flamm, "every spectator in court arose."

"My," exclaimed Magistrate Flamm, "there's over one hundred more. Madam, a man with so many friends cannot be a bad man. I believe you have made a mistake. I will give the prisoner the benefit of the doubt and discharge him."

Magistrate Pool discharged the prisoner, but as he was leaving the courtroom he was arrested by Detective McCarthy, who was on duty at the time. He was taken to the West Side Police Court, where he was arraigned on a charge of larceny of the money which he had just paid to Mrs. Guggis.

Mon the progressive euchre, and John Kelly was the referee. Mr. Kelly expects a large attendance at the pool tournament, which begins Monday evening and runs for five nights. Many of the members are practicing daily for it.

The checker and progressive euchre tournament held last night by the Miami Club, of the Thirty-second Assembly District, at its clubhouse, No. 180 Lexington avenue, had a large attendance of members. President John Kelly was enthusiastic over the interest shown in the event. The checker contest was won by Benjamin Moses. Peter Burns acted as referee.

Mon the progressive euchre, and John Kelly was the referee. Mr. Kelly expects a large attendance at the pool tournament, which begins Monday evening and runs for five nights. Many of the members are practicing daily for it.

YOUNG MOTHER WHO KIDNAPPED HER CHILDREN WHOM THE COURT AWARDED TO HER HUSBAND.

WOMAN LEADS SLEUTHS A CHASE

Mrs. Shaefer and Her Two Little Girls Whom She Kidnapped on Lincoln's Birthday Dodge Her Husband's Detectives.

FATHER ILL OVER THE CASE.

Mrs. Emil Schaefer and her two little girls, Lena and Freda, who disappeared on Lincoln's birthday, have been located in Hartford, Conn. It is understood that Lawyer George Blauvelt, attorney for Emil Schaefer, is a noble hand whom Mrs. Schaefer deserted, will see Mrs. Schaefer in Hartford to-day and negotiate with her for the return of the children to Mr. Schaefer.

It is said that the kidnapping and sudden disappearance of the children have seriously aggravated an illness from which Mr. Schaefer is suffering. That is why Mr. Blauvelt has gone to Hartford to make terms with the wife if possible.

It is not known if Mrs. Schaefer is escorted by Graham Worth, a broker, who disappeared at the same time as did Mrs. Schaefer. Mr. Worth was acquainted with Mrs. Schaefer. He is a business man of high character.

Mrs. Schaefer has led the detectives and lawyers who have been searching for her a merry chase. The trail has led through New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts and back to Connecticut.

Dr. Richard C. Flower, the central figure in the Haganman muddle, is out with a long statement in which he denies almost everything that has been alleged against him. The doctor remains very carefully from going into ancient history in so far as it refers to his past. Dr. Flower was examined by Assistant District Attorney Garvan yesterday. Dr. Garvan said that Dr. Flower impressed him as being a very fine intelligent gentleman. Mr. Garvan said that Dr. Flower had been in the North end, and a mecca for pilgrims from all over the five boroughs. It will be celebrated at Harlem Casino Monday evening, and will be made the occasion for symbolizing not only the reconciliation between Leader Isaac A. Hopper and the Fourth Street Tiger, but of the complete harmonizing of all factions in the Wigwag. For the former purpose Leader Charles F. Murphy will journey up from the Eighteenth to give token that he and Hopper are on rapport, while the latter, with him of Lewis Nixon, Crokers' "white-oiled" boy, was recent for a time last year, will indicate that he has now in fact withdrawn from the firm, receiving for his portion of the values of the house $72,000 and a few thousand dollars. I believe, was turned over a little later in settlement of some outside claims. From his custom to convert his Haganman turned it over to his wife, saying: "Fannie, this is a large check and this I give to you. It represents a good sum of money. It does not pay you back the money I took from you when our house was in trouble, but with what I have given you before, it largely pays that claim."

Dr. Flower in his statement made for publication says in part: "I was acquainted with Mr. Haganman some two years before his death. He was a stockholder, director and vice-president of the Arizona, Eastern and Montana Company, only owning ten shares in his own name, but he purchased 20,000 shares at $5 par value to put in the name of his wife."

"About a month before his death, realizing the probabilities were strong that he might not get well, he expressed a desire to liquidate his business, being a member of the firm of Purnell, Haganman & Co. This he proceeded to do immediately, and in a few days had withdrawn from the firm, receiving for his portion of the values of the house $72,000 and a few thousand dollars. I believe, was turned over a little later in settlement of some outside claims. From his custom to convert his Haganman turned it over to his wife, saying: 'Fannie, this is a large check and this I give to you. It represents a good sum of money. It does not pay you back the money I took from you when our house was in trouble, but with what I have given you before, it largely pays that claim.'"

"What did he refer to when he spoke of his 'house' being in trouble and of his taking money from his wife? 'Purnell & Co.' was in financial difficulties, they being on the wrong side of the market. Every member of the house put up what money he could, and in a few days had withdrawn from the firm, receiving for his portion of the values of the house $72,000 and a few thousand dollars. I believe, was turned over a little later in settlement of some outside claims. From his custom to convert his Haganman turned it over to his wife, saying: 'Fannie, this is a large check and this I give to you. It represents a good sum of money. It does not pay you back the money I took from you when our house was in trouble, but with what I have given you before, it largely pays that claim.'"

"The Speakers' Club of the Tammany Hall Grand Lodge of the Thirty-first Assembly District is a noble band of spell-binders facetiously called the 'Harlem Tammany Praying Band' by Republican revivalists who held camp-meetings on the old 'farm' in former campaigns."

Its annual dinner is the most important event in the political cycle in the North end, and a mecca for pilgrims from all over the five boroughs. It will be celebrated at Harlem Casino Monday evening, and will be made the occasion for symbolizing not only the reconciliation between Leader Isaac A. Hopper and the Fourth Street Tiger, but of the complete harmonizing of all factions in the Wigwag. For the former purpose Leader Charles F. Murphy will journey up from the Eighteenth to give token that he and Hopper are on rapport, while the latter, with him of Lewis Nixon, Crokers' "white-oiled" boy, was recent for a time last year, will indicate that he has now in fact withdrawn from the firm, receiving for his portion of the values of the house $72,000 and a few thousand dollars. I believe, was turned over a little later in settlement of some outside claims. From his custom to convert his Haganman turned it over to his wife, saying: 'Fannie, this is a large check and this I give to you. It represents a good sum of money. It does not pay you back the money I took from you when our house was in trouble, but with what I have given you before, it largely pays that claim.'"

"The audience was still humming the refrain of Haganman's last song, 'Go way back and sit down,' as the performance closed, when he who was a moment ago so resplendent and gay marched off, wilted like the men who had to go 'way back.'"

In her complaint, Mrs. Crowder, who has been prima donna with Williams and Walker, says that she was married to the defendant in 1902, and left him last December. Among other things she alleges that he cruelly beat her and tore her clothes off.

She says his income is $8,000 a year from royalties, and declares he gets $150 a week salary.

$50,075 for a Vase by Morin. LONDON, Feb. 28.—A collection of porcelains which belonged to the late Sir Hugh Adair was sold at auction yesterday and aggregated $53,255 for twenty pieces, mostly Dresden and Sevres vases. The highest price, $27,500, was paid for a vase by Morin which originally came from the Marchioness of Londonderry's collection.

WOMAN LEADS SLEUTHS A CHASE

Mrs. Shaefer and Her Two Little Girls Whom She Kidnapped on Lincoln's Birthday Dodge Her Husband's Detectives.

FATHER ILL OVER THE CASE.

Mrs. Emil Schaefer and her two little girls, Lena and Freda, who disappeared on Lincoln's birthday, have been located in Hartford, Conn. It is understood that Lawyer George Blauvelt, attorney for Emil Schaefer, is a noble hand whom Mrs. Schaefer deserted, will see Mrs. Schaefer in Hartford to-day and negotiate with her for the return of the children to Mr. Schaefer.

It is said that the kidnapping and sudden disappearance of the children have seriously aggravated an illness from which Mr. Schaefer is suffering. That is why Mr. Blauvelt has gone to Hartford to make terms with the wife if possible.

It is not known if Mrs. Schaefer is escorted by Graham Worth, a broker, who disappeared at the same time as did Mrs. Schaefer. Mr. Worth was acquainted with Mrs. Schaefer. He is a business man of high character.

Mrs. Schaefer has led the detectives and lawyers who have been searching for her a merry chase. The trail has led through New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts and back to Connecticut.

Dr. Richard C. Flower, the central figure in the Haganman muddle, is out with a long statement in which he denies almost everything that has been alleged against him. The doctor remains very carefully from going into ancient history in so far as it refers to his past. Dr. Flower was examined by Assistant District Attorney Garvan yesterday. Dr. Garvan said that Dr. Flower impressed him as being a very fine intelligent gentleman. Mr. Garvan said that Dr. Flower had been in the North end, and a mecca for pilgrims from all over the five boroughs. It will be celebrated at Harlem Casino Monday evening, and will be made the occasion for symbolizing not only the reconciliation between Leader Isaac A. Hopper and the Fourth Street Tiger, but of the complete harmonizing of all factions in the Wigwag. For the former purpose Leader Charles F. Murphy will journey up from the Eighteenth to give token that he and Hopper are on rapport, while the latter, with him of Lewis Nixon, Crokers' "white-oiled" boy, was recent for a time last year, will indicate that he has now in fact withdrawn from the firm, receiving for his portion of the values of the house $72,000 and a few thousand dollars. I believe, was turned over a little later in settlement of some outside claims. From his custom to convert his Haganman turned it over to his wife, saying: 'Fannie, this is a large check and this I give to you. It represents a good sum of money. It does not pay you back the money I took from you when our house was in trouble, but with what I have given you before, it largely pays that claim.'"

Dr. Flower in his statement made for publication says in part: "I was acquainted with Mr. Haganman some two years before his death. He was a stockholder, director and vice-president of the Arizona, Eastern and Montana Company, only owning ten shares in his own name, but he purchased 20,000 shares at $5 par value to put in the name of his wife."

"About a month before his death, realizing the probabilities were strong that he might not get well, he expressed a desire to liquidate his business, being a member of the firm of Purnell, Haganman & Co. This he proceeded to do immediately, and in a few days had withdrawn from the firm, receiving for his portion of the values of the house $72,000 and a few thousand dollars. I believe, was turned over a little later in settlement of some outside claims. From his custom to convert his Haganman turned it over to his wife, saying: 'Fannie, this is a large check and this I give to you. It represents a good sum of money. It does not pay you back the money I took from you when our house was in trouble, but with what I have given you before, it largely pays that claim.'"

"The audience was still humming the refrain of Haganman's last song, 'Go way back and sit down,' as the performance closed, when he who was a moment ago so resplendent and gay marched off, wilted like the men who had to go 'way back.'"

In her complaint, Mrs. Crowder, who has been prima donna with Williams and Walker, says that she was married to the defendant in 1902, and left him last December. Among other things she alleges that he cruelly beat her and tore her clothes off.

She says his income is $8,000 a year from royalties, and declares he gets $150 a week salary.

$50,075 for a Vase by Morin. LONDON, Feb. 28.—A collection of porcelains which belonged to the late Sir Hugh Adair was sold at auction yesterday and aggregated $53,255 for twenty pieces, mostly Dresden and Sevres vases. The highest price, $27,500, was paid for a vase by Morin which originally came from the Marchioness of Londonderry's collection.

The checker and progressive euchre tournament held last night by the Miami Club, of the Thirty-second Assembly District, at its clubhouse, No. 180 Lexington avenue, had a large attendance of members. President John Kelly was enthusiastic over the interest shown in the event. The checker contest was won by Benjamin Moses. Peter Burns acted as referee.

Mon the progressive euchre, and John Kelly was the referee. Mr. Kelly expects a large attendance at the pool tournament, which begins Monday evening and runs for five nights. Many of the members are practicing daily for it.

The checker and progressive euchre tournament held last night by the Miami Club, of the Thirty-second Assembly District, at its clubhouse, No. 180 Lexington avenue, had a large attendance of members. President John Kelly was enthusiastic over the interest shown in the event. The checker contest was won by Benjamin Moses. Peter Burns acted as referee.

WOMAN LEADS SLEUTHS A CHASE

Mrs. Shaefer and Her Two Little Girls Whom She Kidnapped on Lincoln's Birthday Dodge Her Husband's Detectives.

FATHER ILL OVER THE CASE.

Mrs. Emil Schaefer and her two little girls, Lena and Freda, who disappeared on Lincoln's birthday, have been located in Hartford, Conn. It is understood that Lawyer George Blauvelt, attorney for Emil Schaefer, is a noble hand whom Mrs. Schaefer deserted, will see Mrs. Schaefer in Hartford to-day and negotiate with her for the return of the children to Mr. Schaefer.

It is said that the kidnapping and sudden disappearance of the children have seriously aggravated an illness from which Mr. Schaefer is suffering. That is why Mr. Blauvelt has gone to Hartford to make terms with the wife if possible.

It is not known if Mrs. Schaefer is escorted by Graham Worth, a broker, who disappeared at the same time as did Mrs. Schaefer. Mr. Worth was acquainted with Mrs. Schaefer. He is a business man of high character.

Mrs. Schaefer has led the detectives and lawyers who have been searching for her a merry chase. The trail has led through New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, Massachusetts and back to Connecticut.

Dr. Richard C. Flower, the central figure in the Haganman muddle, is out with a long statement in which he denies almost everything that has been alleged against him. The doctor remains very carefully from going into ancient history in so far as it refers to his past. Dr. Flower was examined by Assistant District Attorney Garvan yesterday. Dr. Garvan said that Dr. Flower impressed him as being a very fine intelligent gentleman. Mr. Garvan said that Dr. Flower had been in the North end, and a mecca for pilgrims from all over the five boroughs. It will be celebrated at Harlem Casino Monday evening, and will be made the occasion for symbolizing not only the reconciliation between Leader Isaac A. Hopper and the Fourth Street Tiger, but of the complete harmonizing of all factions in the Wigwag. For the former purpose Leader Charles F. Murphy will journey up from the Eighteenth to give token that he and Hopper are on rapport, while the latter, with him of Lewis Nixon, Crokers' "white-oiled" boy, was recent for a time last year, will indicate that he has now in fact withdrawn from the firm, receiving for his portion of the values of the house $72,000 and a few thousand dollars. I believe, was turned over a little later in settlement of some outside claims. From his custom to convert his Haganman turned it over to his wife, saying: 'Fannie, this is a large check and this I give to you. It represents a good sum of money. It does not pay you back the money I took from you when our house was in trouble, but with what I have given you before, it largely pays that claim.'"

Dr. Flower in his statement made for publication says in part: "I was acquainted with Mr. Haganman some two years before his death. He was a stockholder, director and vice-president of the Arizona, Eastern and Montana Company, only owning ten shares in his own name, but he purchased 20,000 shares at $5 par value to put in the name of his wife."

"About a month before his death, realizing the probabilities were strong that he might not get well, he expressed a desire to liquidate his business, being a member of the firm of Purnell, Haganman & Co. This he proceeded to do immediately, and in a few days had withdrawn from the firm, receiving for his portion of the values of the house $72,000 and a few thousand dollars. I believe, was turned over a little later in settlement of some outside claims. From his custom to convert his Haganman turned it over to his wife, saying: 'Fannie, this is a large check and this I give to you. It represents a good sum of money. It does not pay you back the money I took from you when our house was in trouble, but with what I have given you before, it largely pays that claim.'"

"The audience was still humming the refrain of Haganman's last song, 'Go way back and sit down,' as the performance closed, when he who was a moment ago so resplendent and gay marched off, wilted like the men who had to go 'way back.'"

In her complaint, Mrs. Crowder, who has been prima donna with Williams and Walker, says that she was married to the defendant in 1902, and left him last December. Among other things she alleges that he cruelly beat her and tore her clothes off.

She says his income is $8,000 a year from royalties, and declares he gets $150 a week salary.

$50,075 for a Vase by Morin. LONDON, Feb. 28.—A collection of porcelains which belonged to the late Sir Hugh Adair was sold at auction yesterday and aggregated $53,255 for twenty pieces, mostly Dresden and Sevres vases. The highest price, $27,500, was paid for a vase by Morin which originally came from the Marchioness of Londonderry's collection.

The checker and progressive euchre tournament held last night by the Miami Club, of the Thirty-second Assembly District, at its clubhouse, No. 180 Lexington avenue, had a large attendance of members. President John Kelly was enthusiastic over the interest shown in the event. The checker contest was won by Benjamin Moses. Peter Burns acted as referee.

Mon the progressive euchre, and John Kelly was the referee. Mr. Kelly expects a large attendance at the pool tournament, which begins Monday evening and runs for five nights. Many of the members are practicing daily for it.

The checker and progressive euchre tournament held last night by the Miami Club, of the Thirty-second Assembly District, at its clubhouse, No. 180 Lexington avenue, had a large attendance of members. President John Kelly was enthusiastic over the interest shown in the event. The checker contest was won by Benjamin Moses. Peter Burns acted as referee.

WHO OWNS THESE TWIN BABY WAIFS

Blue-Eyed, Expensively Dressed Boys Only Four Days Old Left in a Hallway at No. 22 Hubert Street.

TAKEN THERE IN A CARRIAGE.

Named Patrick and Joseph and Baptized by Father Kenna and Then Sent to the Bronx by the Guild of the Infant Saviour.

Deserted by their mother, left in a miserable hallway at No. 22 Hubert street and finally separated from each other—that is the story of the tiny twin baby boys. They are the first twins ever recorded as being deserted in the big city of New York.

Though only four days old the tiny waifs have travelled over New York more extensively than much older children and they have opened their blue eyes on more contrasting pictures than allotted children born in circumstances such as the babies' clothes would indicate.

The schedule of these twin waifs' life programme up to to-day is: Brought into the world in some unknown but comfortable home.

Hurried away in a carriage and left in the hallway of a stylishly-dressed woman at No. 22 Hubert street.

Found by Mrs. Mary Ryan and taken to the Church of St. Alphonsus, where Father Kenna baptized them Patrick and Joseph.

Carried to the police station in Leonard street, and from there to Bellevue Hospital.

Taken from Bellevue by Miss Frances McIntyre, of the Guild of the Infant Saviour, and placed with nurses in the Bronx.

When the babies left Bellevue they were separated for the first time.

Why They Were Separated. "It was necessary for me to place them with separate nurses, as they are too much for one to manage," said Miss McIntyre. "I have waiting lists of women whose babies have died, and when we receive children from Bellevue we always place them with these nurses. As soon as they are able to be fed we will put them with one nurse, so that they may be together again."

Joseph and Patrick are now waiting to be adopted by some one. The Guild of the Infant Saviour will see that they are properly placed, but there are not many people who want to adopt twins, and I hate to see these little waifs separated."

There is one woman in New York who cried bitterly last night when she heard that the children had been taken from the hospital, where she was on her way to visit them. She was Mrs. Mary Ryan, who found the bundle of humanity in the hallway on Hubert street.

"I think I ought to have one of them for my own," Mrs. Ryan said, "and I broke my heart to see the baby taken away from me. I am a poor woman, but I never wanted anything so badly in my life as I wanted my godchild."

The strange caprices of fate which have brought the two handsomely dressed babies under the godmother-ship of Mrs. Mary Ryan, scrubwoman and honest toiler, is something their own mother must ponder when she reads the story of their fate. Who the pretty twins are is veiled in deep mystery, but that they are not of humble origin is indicated in every detail of face and clothing.

"I am sure that these twins are of some good stock," said Miss McIntyre. "The little waifs have tiny, straight noses, big blue eyes, brown hair and perfectly shaped heads. Their little bodies are well formed and they are as fine specimens of babyhood as ever graced the most patrician family."

Distinguished by Embroidery. When they were taken from Bellevue yesterday, Joseph and Patrick, wrapped in separate coverings, began to realize that there was something new in store for them and they both showed their displeasure at being separated. Dressed in the finest of hand-made clothes, the only distinguishing features of the little boys is the color of the embroidery and ribbons on their garments. Patrick, the godchild of Mrs. Ryan, is dressed in blue, and little Joseph, who claims as his godmother Miss Madeline Breann, has pink trimmings on his lace clothes.

Until the Guild of the Infant Saviour can find desirable homes for the interesting twins they will remain out at the Bronx with their foster mothers. As the first twin waifs ever found in New York they carry with them an interest which is intensified by the delicate and expensive garments in which they are clothed.

That two such fine babies should be deserted is a matter of wonder to every one who has seen the little twins. Joseph and Patrick, who have been christened in the Catholic Church, are not wondering or worrying about the future or their past. The only thing that has clouded their baby minds is the longing for each other, which is marked even among children of such tender age.

There is no end to the ways in which the tiny waifs have travelled over New York more extensively than much older children and they have opened their blue eyes on more contrasting pictures than allotted children born